HEARING DATE SET FOR RICHMOND HARBOR BILL

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

The world's most pathetic story was told to us yesterday.

It seems that a prominent San Francisco couple left for Europe. The male member of the party had just purchased himself a new pair of store teeth at a cost of $500.

The first night on board the ship, the owner of the store teeth took them out and put them in a glass of water, as is the custom.

In the middle of the night his wife arose to get herself a drink of water.

Beside her husband's bed she found a glass filled with water.

Whoa! Hold everything! You're miles ahead of OUR story.

Not wishing to drink stale water, she threw it out an open porthole into the briny deep.

And with the water went a pair of perfectly good store teeth, made to measure.

The story tells us that the husband refused to speak to his wife all the way across.

One wonders if he ate soup all the way across the pond or if he was too sea-sick to do so.

Of course, like all stories should, it has a happy ending. He had a brand new set of store teeth made in England.

Which gives rise to the thought, "were those teeth taxed by the customs officials when he returned to these United States?"

Forgot to ask the lady who told us that story about that point. We'll do so.

TWO FELONS SHOT BY GUARDS

COLUMBUS, O., April 29.—UP.—The undercurrent of mutiny that has bubbled for more than a week in the Ohio State penitentiary, broke into a torrent of violence today as 1300 prisoners in the white city cell blocks staged an open revolt.

Prison guards opened fire with shot guns and repeating rifles, seriously wounding two convicts. Martial law was declared and the prison turned over to Colonel Robert Haubrich, commanding the state militia.

By nightfall 1000 National Guardsmen patrolled the ramparts and the prison's inner quadrangle. A machine gun company from Fort Hayes moved inside the walls and order was restored.

Felons Grumble

The convicts in the white city blocks, grumbling and recalcitrant since the Easter Monday fire, got out of their bunks this morning to see workmen engaged in erecting a barbed wire stockade in the prison yard—a stockade such as came into being in German prison camps during the World War.

World circulated that the stockade was to be used for confining agitators. Messages were tapped out from cell to cell on water pipes and word of the new disciplinary measure was shouted across the yard.

Wilson Talks At Boys' Meet

Aubrey Wilson, president of the Richmond Union high school board, spoke on the subject of "Success," before a meeting of the Boys' Hi-Y last night.

Plans were laid for a Mother and Son banquet to be held May 20 in the Hotel Carquinez.

The capture of the state California tennis doubles championship by Jimmy Hurley and Phil Carlin was also announced at last night's meeting.

George Degnan, president of the club, presided.

SUIT HEARD IN FEDERAL COURT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—Mrs. Agnes E. Taylor, 70, of Byron, told Federal Judge St. Sure here today that she was so ignorant of business matters that she did not see a promissory note when she saw one, but signed her name to any document that W. P. Netherton, a life-long friend she helped educate, gave to her.

Mrs. Taylor's testimony was given in her suit against Netherton and the Federal Land Value Insurance company.

She told the court that her husband, V. T. Taylor, died in 1923, leaving a fortune of $220,000. For half a century they had lived on their ranch near Byron. She said that she and her husband had taken a parental interest in Netherton ever since he was 16 years old, and had sent him to school and had aided him to become a lawyer.

According to her story, after her husband had died, Netherton had formed the land company and told her he needed $100,000 to finance articles in Nevada. She said she turned over to him three mortgages, one for $16,000, one of $13,000 and one of $13,500, and later gave him other securities.

These she alleges, were assigned to the land company by Netherton, then its president, and she never saw them again.

Mrs. Taylor declares that she never went before a notary when she signed the papers for Netherton, but that the papers came back with a notary's seal.

The suit was first filed in the superior court here, but was later transferred to the Federal court, because the land company is a Nevada corporation.

Netherton is ill in Santa Cruz, and did not attend the hearing today.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

HOMES WEEK OPENED HERE

Necessity of ventilation was stressed by Miss Nora Purviance of the city health department, in her talk yesterday evening at the Better Homes exhibit at the Odd Fellows hall.

"Persons may live for comparatively long periods of time without food or water, but life without air is but a matter of seconds," she said.

Miss Purviance pointed out the cases among foreign born families in Richmond who have suffered from diseases which they would not have contracted had it not been for poor ventilation in their homes.

Narbett Talks

At the afternoon session of the exhibit, Keith Narbett, local architect, talked on home construction, with particular reference to wiring. In many homes, he said, too many lights have been attached to one socket, resulting in many fires.

Another of the points brought out by the architect, was the selection of roofing material for the home. It is cheaper not to buy inferior material, as the cost will be greater in the long run, he said.

The dining room is a family institution, Narbett declared in another part of his talk. Although

ENGINEERS WILL TELL OF WORK

According to press dispatches received from Washington yesterday, hearings by the Senate commerce committee on the $110,000,000 rivers and harbors bill passed by the House last week will be started Friday.

The bill includes the appropriation of $313,000 to carry out the re-survey of the Richmond harbor and to take care of the maintenance of the harbor channel.

It was reported from Washington that Chairman Johnson said Major General Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, and Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakne, assistant to the chief, would testify at the first meeting.

The two engineers will be called to give the committee expert advice on the 154 projects and 346 surveys contained in the bill as passed by the House.

Johnson told reporters that the hearings would be expedited as much as possible in an effort to report a bill to the Senate at an early date.

Confidence was expressed from many sources that the bill would be passed by the Senate.

If this action is taken it will relieve the city of Richmond of the cost of maintaining the channel in the local harbor at a depth of 30 feet as it has been required to do since the deeper channel was dredged two years ago.

SUIT FILED IN SCHOOL BATTLE

MARTINEZ, April 29.—Asking an injunction preventing Superintendent William H. Hanlon from issuance of an order declaring the Green Valley and Danville school district consolidated, William Short, merger opponent today filed suit in Superior Court here.

Judge A. B. McKenzie made a writ returnable Monday when Hanlon must show cause why the injunction should not be issued.

Filing of this suit climaxes a three months hectic battle on the part of both parties to have their way. The merger vote was defeated at one election, but with the arresting of two voters, charged with fraudulent voting, a new election was held. At this time, the consolidationists carried the election.

The excursionists will take basket dinners. Coffee and ice cream will be served on the boat. Aahnes band will furnish music throughout the day, music for the dancing.

A number of feature stunts are being planned by the working bodies of the Temple.

If You Want to Know Whether He's Prejudiced--!

A PSYCHOLOGICAL test of public opinion, designed to detect the most prejudiced Americans, has been drawn up by Prof. Goodwin Watson of Teachers College. The test contains five hundred questions, and many persons are going to be violently prejudiced, at the start, before we shall follow the example of the census and suggest to our women readers a mere twenty-five questions which they can ask HIM, if they want to find out whether HE'S broad-minded--or prejudiced! Here goes:

1. Do you believe that women are naturally as intelligent as men and should have the same educational and economic opportunities to develop and use intelligence?

2. Is a girl justified in exacting from the young man she loves and marries the same standards of manners and morals which he exacts from her?

3. Has a girl as much right as a man to carry on, simultaneously, close friendships with several members of the opposite sex?

4. Should a girl allow any young man, even her fiancé, to give her orders?

5. Do you believe in a loyal friendship between girls as possible as such friendship between men?

6. Are you willing to allow a girl to use her own judgment about smoking, petting and other personal concerns, as you use your judgment in deciding these concerns for yourself?

7. Do you dislike the girl who argues with you, or questions your statements, even--or especially--when she is right?

8. Do you consider it to be in any way your affair how even the girl to whom you are engaged wears her hair or her clothes?

9. Do you feel resentment when any girl equals or surpasses any man in physical or mental achievement?

10. Do you avoid college girls and oppose co-education?

11. Do you believe in equal pay for equal work, without consideration of the sex of the worker?

12. Would you feel humiliated if your superior at your place of employment were a woman?

13. Are you of the opinion that, when a man marries, he should be master in his own house?

14. Do you think that every woman who marries should cook and keep house, regardless of circumstances or of her capability and preference for other work?

15. Would you be indignant if your wife earned money outside the home?

16. Do you consider it beneath your dignity to help your wife with the housework in an emergency?

17. Will you tell her how much you earn and work out, with her full cooperation, the family expense accounts?

18. Will you demand that she accept your opinions, on all subjects, as gospel truth?

19. Are you going to resent her desire to dance, play cards and other ways enjoy herself reasonably, after marriage, because you feel that she belongs to you and should "settle down"?

20. Do you think that a mother should have as much to say as a father about bringing up the children?

21. If you stay away from church will you argue that it is your wife's duty to go?

22. Are you in the habit of saying, "Oh, well, she's a woman--and what can anybody expect?"

23. Is another pet remark of yours, "When a woman gets into men's things, there's bound to be trouble?"

24. Have you any sex bias against allowing women to vote or against voting for women candidates?

25. Will you concede that a woman always has as much right to her point of view as a man to his--even though the two may not coincide?

To-Morrow--If You Want to Know Whether She's Prejudiced--!

You are continuing as you were, laughing and dancing and singing. And thrilling with the youth in your blood. You have always been so--You have never dreamed that anything different. And one morning you awaken. And you throw out your arms, to the sun. And life is good.

"That's more like it. And you know what 'hay' is."

"Yes, when you want a fellow to stop, you call, 'Hey, there!' and he stops, but I don't see how you can 'hit' that 'hay.'"

"You can't. There's another kind of 'hay.' Don't you know that?"

"No, Dad, I don't."

"Well, you know grass?"

"Sure, it's what you keep off in the park."

"Well, hay is dried grass." Now you know what 'hit the hay' means."

MR. HOOVER'S NEW LIBRARY

AMERICAN book publishers have contributed 500 volumes to the White House for President Hoover to while away his evenings with. The gift is in the nature of a boom, for Mr. Hoover cannot possibly read them all unless we give him a second term.

Nobody knows what became of the original White House library. But the books were probably borrowed during the Harding regime and never returned. Mr. Coolidge did not notice the depleted book shelves while he was in office. Calvin had no time to read literature when he could write it at $2 a word.

The story goes that Mr. Hoover, at the end of his inaugural day, looked around for a book to read before going to bed. He couldn't find any. But the book publishing trade heard of his disappointment and has tickled in handsomely.

After this missing book episode, Mr. Hoover should have gone out into the empty White House garage and let the automobile trade hear about it.

It is not related what Mr. Hoover did that first evening after he found there were no books. But we know just what we would do. If we moved into a furnished house and found the library shelves vacant, we would have taken an inventory of the rest of the place and found if anything else was missing.

The full list of titles donated to Mr. Hoover is not given. But we would like to make a bet that one volume that isn't there is "Have Faith in Massachusetts."

We note that one item included in the publishers' gift is Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" in two volumes. If our President can wade through that tale he is wasting altogether too much time and should have his salary cut to $25,000 a year.

How to Make a Suit From a Dress

By Clarissa Moore

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Be Sure the Material is Good and That the Right Touches make It Look Well.

every individual thing is done correctly. Perhaps you thought a seam was just, well, a seam, but you are wrong. At any rate, there is a whole lot to know about seams. There are many kinds, some ten or a dozen in common use, and they play a star part in the construction of any garment. So let us learn all we can about them.

There are, then, plain seams, French seams, flat-felled seams and stitched fell, welt and cord seams, strap and tuck seams among others, and there are, too, many ways of finishing the different seams, but as we are dealing for the time, with worsted fabrics, we shall consider solely the plain seam.

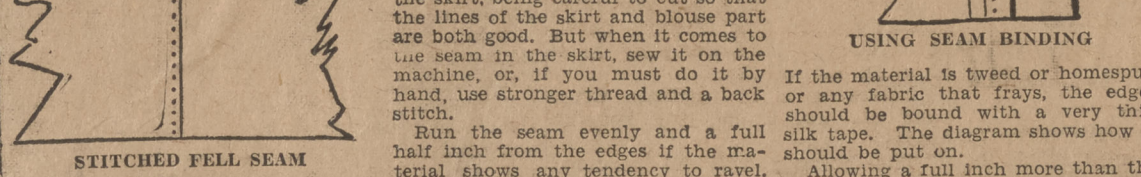

If you are using a plain, one-piece frock for the basis of the suit you are going to make, you would proceed precisely as my young friend did with her velvet, except where she had to steam her velvet, your worsted must be nicely pressed, using a damp cloth and a hot, but not too hot, iron.

Get your desired jacket length--just below the hip line, for a suggestion--or it may be an inch or two above or below, as you please, and cut your dress off at that length all the way around.

It may not be necessary, it really should be, to take the skirt apart; merely cut the blouse section from the skirt, being careful to cut so that the lines of the blouse and skirt are both good. But when it comes to the seam in the skirt, sew it on the machine, or, if you must do it by hand, use stronger thread and a back stitch.

Run the seam evenly and a full half inch from the edges if the material shows any tendency to ravel. If your material is heavy or flannel, sew a trifle nearer the edges, and in any case the stitching must be done so that when the seam is opened and pressed under a dampened cloth the edges will lie perfectly flat. If there is any tendency to fullness, even a hint of it, rip up the seam and do it over.

The seams in the skirt which usually, though not necessarily, are at the sides, and the shoulder, underarm and sleeve seams of the blouse part, are called the construction seams. In your made-over sports suit

Another thing to consider in advance in "making your own" is that, whether the material is old or new, if the finished product has that home-made look, if it cries out that you made it yourself, it isn't a success, unless, of course, you are an experienced dressmaker.

Awful, isn't it? Nothing is worse than that "home-made" look. You can't tell just why the look was there or where it came from. The only way to avoid it is to see to it meticulously from the outset that

Old Lenton Sermons

This is Lent, the time of penitence. The spiritual descendants of Bossuet and Fenelon are holding forth from the pulpits of France, albeit no longer with severity and personal allusions to individuals in the congregation as was the practice in the Middle Ages. There was, for instance, that preacher, Jacques Legrand, who thundered in public against Queen Isabella, who had come to church very much discolored (discolorée--tache ombilic), or Jean the Little, who shouted in the presence of the King that any citizen present had the fullest right to assassinate the monarch if he persisted in being tyrant. Jean was known as "God's nightingale." His song of murder would have landed him in the cage very quickly these days. In France the personal allusion from the pulpit in Lenton time is also on the decline. My grandfather, however, could recall how he, as a boy, had heard the famous Vicar of Wiersbeke preach a sermon so short and still so effective that the peasants hung their heads in terror. It went something like this in a most savory East Flemish dialect: "When Our Lord on the day of judgment shall ask me: 'Vicar of Wiersbeke, where are thy sheep?' then I will not answer Him yet. But when Our Lord shall ask me for a third time (thundering): 'Vicar of Wiersbeke, where are thy sheep?' I will reply: 'They were not sheep, that flock Thou gavest me; they were a pack of surly wolves. Amen!'"

Balfour

And Zion

Though Lord Balfour was often pictured as, and indeed himself rather created the impression of a die-hard Tory of the old school, an unbending aristocrat and irreconcilable Conservative he has in reality been one of modern England's most effective preachers of democracy. The most irreconcilable elements were bound up in the extraordinary personality who became the champion of the Jewish people at Versailles and their advocate for a national home for the Jewish people in the councils of humanity. A review of his life would show that only the most profound questions of human activity only the most momentous events, had ever been able to stir Lord Balfour into anything approaching enthusiasm. His difference at times was astonishing to his best friends. Mr. Wyndham once said during a debate, when Balfour was yawning and dangling his legs: "Arthur isn't interested. Nothing will rouse him. He knows there was once an ice age and that some day there will be an ice age again." "If in the last century," he once said, "the whole material setting of civilization has altered, we owe it neither to politicians nor to political institutions. We owe it to the continued efforts of those who have advanced science and to those who have applied it." The magic of modern science enthralled him. Einstein's theory of relativity was an event of first magnitude in world history to him. Politics was a game, science a play, without unworthy motives that so often assailed the lower strata of politicians. But politics was never recognized as a science. It was a mere sport, a game to be enjoyed. There were no sentimental reasons attached to Lord Balfour's interest for the national movement in Judaism. It was because he believed that the "People of the Book" were again in an era of conscious, creative, scientific effort, that he took their side, and participated in the opening of the Hebrew University which, significantly, started with a faculty of bio-chemistry.

Czar to Be Sainted

There is at present before the Synod of the Serbian Orthodox Church a serious proposal to proclaim the late Russian Emperor, Nicholas II, a saint of the Serbian Church. The proposal comes from the population of one of the larger provincial towns of Serbia, Leningrad, where a special series of church services and meetings was recently held. It was stated that Nicholas II. was "the most pious, pure and noble of the European rulers," and that to the very end of his principal cares was for the Serbian people; he should therefore be declared a Yugo-Slav saint and placed in the ranks of Serbian saints, together with St. Simon, St. Sava, St. Lazar and St. Stephen." If this proposal is given effect, the late Czar would be the first "Yugo-Slav" saint, since all the others were elevated long before the formation of the State.

Preparation of Soil

GOOD soil is the keynote of a successful garden. The soil about many new homes where grading has been done will be found to be extremely hard from the presence of clay subsoil with the top soil. Such soil should be broken up by digging to the depth of three feet.

In digging always keep drainage in mind. This is very important. Drainage may be anything from tin cans to broken crockery, just so there are six to eight inches of it. On the soil is very poor it is here about three inches deep. Then fill in about the original soil. If sodded shake off soil next cut off roots, and mix the soil. In the absence of the necessary to use some humus is another matter to be used successfully.

Now the correction of an acid condition properly begins with the diet. We shall list for you the more popular of the acid-forming foods so you will know what to avoid when ordering your next meal:

long to the acid group; tomatoes too. Red meat is an acid-forming food and so too is coffee. As for tea that has been allowed to boil there's a positively poisonous acid. But lemons and oranges contrary to the reputation they have for being acid, are really wonderful anti-acid foods.

Half a lemon squeezed in water, taken on rising, will do perfect wonders for the person who is an acid case. The habit of drinking orange juice regularly will help the good cause too. Substituting milk or just plain water for more stimulating draughts is also highly recommended.

Of course there is a local treatment for brittle nails. It consists, simply enough, in dipping the nails in warm olive oil and holding them there for a few minutes. This little treatment should be given once a day. In addition the nails should be anointed with vaseline nightly and left that way until morning. Permanent results are not promised those who use only the local treatment, however. To accomplish lasting effects there must be both inside and outside treatment. Which is but reasonable--isn't it so?

Before painting or kalsomining a ceiling cut a soft rubber ball in half and in the center of one half cut a hole large enough to slip the handle of the brush through and the paint will drip into the rubber cup instead of down your arm.

After sweeping rugs and carpets rub them with a cloth wrung out of water containing ammonia--it will restore the colors.

CADISH CA DAY

American tables are rapidly becoming cosmopolitan, as famous cooks from other lands teach us how to make their specialties. From Ghent we have learned to combine fruit with meat and almonds with fowl; from the Basque country comes the process of cooking meats in a mixture of oil and lemon juice; we are indebted to Russia for many of our combinations of baked fish and vegetables.

The spokesmen for Hungarian cooking have been backward about bringing to us the savory dishes for which their nation is noted. Here and there in the United States we find people who serve the Hungarian cheese with caraway seeds; most of us have become so familiar with Chicken Paprika that we have forgotten that not so long ago it was looked upon as a strange, exotic concoction; but few of our native cooks have learned the secret of cooking veal en casserole in the delicious ways that Hungarians do. There is no more delicious main dish for a spring dinner than Veal Hongroise, and this is the way it is prepared:

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten
1 cup cracker crumbs
6 strips bacon
1 pint milk
2 tablespoons flour

After removing the skin and fat, cut the veal cutlet in small squares. Sprinkle them with seasoning, lemon juice, and grated onion. Dip in crumbs, then egg, then crumbs again. Cut up strips of bacon and fry until crisp. Remove the bacon from the pan, and saute the veal lightly in the bacon fat. Remove the veal to a casserole and make a gravy of the remaining a flour and milk. Pour the gravy over the veal, garnish with crisp bacon and cook in a moderate oven for forty minutes.

The true Hungarian serves cauerkraut with veal cooked in this way, but to our uneducated taste it is perhaps better not to risk the combination of sauerkraut and milk spray. Some of the can be cosmopolitan in our eating only within certain limits.

VIOLET MILLER PAID HONOR AT BIRTHDAY FETE

A jolly crowd of young people met at the house of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miller, 25 Idaho street, recently, in honor of the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Violet.

The decorative motif of the living room and porch was entirely Chinese. Chinese lanterns cast a soft glow over Oriental baskets and vases filled with Cecil Brunner roses and ferns. Garlands of roses and greenery carried out the general color scheme of pink and green.

There were three nice features of the tastefully decorated dining table; a large birthday cake from Wilbert Bliss, a big basket of miscellaneous flowers from Mr. and Mrs. H. Graham, and the banquet cloth of hand made drawn work that was made by Violet's grandmother, Mrs. Brink, of Eugene, Oregon.

Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Busby assisted in serving refreshments. At intervals there was dancing and games, and Miss Dorothy Hall danced the tap and several intricate steps that were very pleasing.

Those present were Ethel Fischer, Lucille Cottingham, Dorothy Cheney, Dorothy Hall, Dorothy Miller, Louis Busby and Violet Miller, Louis Boda, Albert Knicker, Albert Schultz, Wilbert Bliss, Charles Perasso and Robert and Hubert Miller; Mrs. Harry Graham, Mrs. H. Busby and Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

Doheny Oil Suit Delayed

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—(UP)—The fifth suit in which Edward L. Doheny has become involved because of alleged oil lease transactions with former Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall was continued until May 27 in Federal court here today.

The suit is a civil action brought by Frank H. Knobel, Cleveland attorney, and other stockholders in the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport corporation, asking that Doheny account for and return approximately $20,000,000.

An unconfirmed report said that the conference, stipulated by both sides, was to permit an agreement out of court.

The stockholders claim that Doheny, through allegedly fraudulent deals with Fall, was responsible for a great loss by the stockholders. The case grew out of nullification of some of the famous Elk Hills oil reserve leases. Doheny since sold the Pan-American company. His answer to the suit declares that the charges, if true, are outweighed by the statute of limitations, but adds that they are false.

Under the will, Mrs. Post would have received the benefit of a $1,000 life insurance policy carried by Mrs. Palmer. The bungalow in which the shooting took place was willed to Mrs. Van Essa McDowell, Chicago artist who lived with Mrs. Palmer. Several relatives shared in the $25,000 estate.

Mrs. Palmer wrote the will in pencil last Sept. 28, but it was not attested until February 20. Of Mrs. McDowell she said: "She was my good adviser—my helmsman—my homemaker—the only home I have ever known."

In bequeathing the insurance policy, payable in 5 years, to Mrs. Post the artist said: "I hope she never will be in need. I have given her my life's blood. In return she has given me a great love which I will carry on."

COAST FREE OF RACKETEERING METHODS

SACRAMENTO, April 29. — A captured car swiftly drawn up to the curb—shots—a figure slumping to the ground—the machine disappearing as hastily as it came. That may be said of one of several eastern or middle western cities—but it most emphatically is NOT California. For gangsters and "the racket" do not exist in this state, according to Clarence S. Morrill, superintendent of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation.

Along with its climate, California boasts of an absence of organized crime, that yearly takes its toll in citizens' lives and money in eastern states, Morrill declared.

"My experience has conclusively proved to me that we are fortunate in withstanding invasion of the professional racketeer," he said.

"We have our crime troubles, but they do not partake of that organization element which is so common in other cities. An occasional bank robbery occurs here, but that is only to be expected.

"When we broke up the Fleagle gang in this state, the only group that worked the eastern gangsters method in California, was disposed of and since then only individual effort has been evident at scenes of crime."

Conditions in California are not suited for racketeering on a large scale, Morrill explained, and it is only on this big scheme of things that it can be successfully worked.

"Recently we had an outbreak in the bay district of what authorities thought was a racketeering game, the superintendent related.

"A fire occurred in a cleaning establishment and police believed a bomb had been placed there. A subsequent roundup of suspects failed to disclose any definite organization for "shaking down" the cleaning and dyeing works of that region, as was feared by the officials.

"Even if that case was an attempt at racketeering, it was on such an insignificant scale that it cannot be classed a menace."

Earthquake Hits Redding

REDDING, April 29.—UP—An earth shock that was only felt in a small sparsely populated area adjoining Mt. Lassen, volcanic peak east of here, was recorded by a federal volcanologist this afternoon.

F. H. Finch, government geologist at Mineral, on the slopes of Mt. Lassen, said his instruments showed the movement of the earth.

No damage was done and the tremor was only barely perceptible here, most residents of the city not feeling it.

The center of the disturbance, Finch said, was about 15 miles south of Mineral.

BERKELEY, April 29.—UP—The seismograph at the University of California here failed to record the earth shock that was felt in the vicinity of Mt. Lassen today.

May Defend The Cup

THE TRIM little Enterprise, which was launched in New England recently is being prepared to compete for the right to defend the American cup this year against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock V. Capt. George Monsell, shown at the right, will command the Enterprise.

Wood, Aged 1,000,000 Years, Found

SPOKANE, Wash., April 29.—A piece of wood, estimated to be more than 1,000,000 years old, was picked up recently in the Deep Creek canyon near Spokane.

The wood is now on show in Spokane and interests many. The Deep Creek canyon is a knife-like gash in the earth about 15 miles from Spokane.

The region is volcanic with a great filling of soft earth, apparently from the ice ages and the great floods. The piece of wood, which seems to be mahogany, has probably grown during the tropic period in the northern country, when the mastodon roamed free.

Each year Deep Creek canyon is flooded with a mass of melting snow water hastening down from the hills to the Spokane river. Only a few days mark the flow of water above ground in Deep Creek canyon, but during this period the water has such force that it carries boulders along for some distance, and cuts deeply into the earth.

In dry season it is believed the river sinks underground signs of this being noted at various points along the course of the canyon.

Scientists, geologists and students spend hours studying the canyon, which is said to be nature's finest picture of the world growth. Cutting down the canyon to a depth of several hundred feet has left great walls to tell the story. Almost daily one can find students digging away in the walls of the canyon for fossils in the form of leaves, twigs, etc., from trees that grew thousands of years ago. Odd rock formations can be seen by the score.

Lava rocks have been broken open showing the charred remains of huge bones of prehistoric animals. Not so long ago, a farmer dug a well and 35 feet down discovered the skeleton of a man.

In recent years spring freshets have been greater in force than ever, cutting much deeper than usual.

U. S. TO WAR ON GANG MERGERS

WASHINGTON, April 29.—UP—The government has discovered and declared war on the big-time racketeer.

The new methods of organized crime, notoriously called to the public attention in the bootleg and rumrunning combinations, were challenged flatly today by the Hoover administration with announcement of a campaign to wipe them out, which will be accelerated as additional legal machinery is provided.

This new word came in elaboration of the president's demand made yesterday in a special message to Congress for enactment this session of his five-part prohibition enforcement program. Indications in Congress were that not more than two of the drastic measures, and maybe only one, will be passed before adjournment in June.

Transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department will help meet the crime situation, officials believe. A bill to accomplish this has been passed by the House and is now before the Senate.

Attorney General Mitchell supplemented the crime drive announcement by disclosing plans whereby he hopes to stimulate cooperation between Federal and state officials.

At the same time, however, he told of his recent success in jailing prohibition-law violators and disclosed that it has jammed the jails and prisons to a point where not even the two new Federal prisons to be constructed will take care of the overflow.

Mitchell announced one of the new penitentiaries will be located in northwestern Pennsylvania or southern New York. One of three of the other short-term Federal prisons is to be at El Paso, Texas. Mitchell said others may be built at Detroit and Chicago if Congress appropriates the money.

The president's attention has been particularly caught by the activities of the gangs such as that of Capone, in Chicago. It was recalled that the government has impeded the Capone activities by prosecuting a brother of "Scarface Al" for an income tax offense.

Extended and better cooperation with local authorities through the district attorneys in attacks upon criminal rinks in the larger cities is envisioned by the administration as a result of the probable transfer from the treasury to the justice department.

The president's urgent demand on Congress brought little reaction today. Speaker Longworth is understood to doubt that Congress will have time to consider many of the bills, due to the tariff battle starting again Thursday and the necessity of adjourning in June so that Congressmen can attend to their campaigns for the November elections.

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—UP—A mule named Quixote made up his mind today that he was a stronger fellow than an automobile and lost his life in discovering that he was wrong.

The car, driven by Dorothy Phelps, of Ontario, with Lloyd Foster as passenger came ambling down Anaheim road when Quixote appeared. He cocked a speculative eye toward the approaching car, then hoisted his ears back and prepared for the impact. He lost. No one else was hurt.

WANT ADS GET RESULTS IN THE RECORD-HERALD

Burglars Don't seek the Limelight

DARKNESS is their stock in trade. They work by stealth —unheard and unseen — their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods, does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career — put him to a test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits.

You can depend on him. He knows his product is good. That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them.

HIGH NINE BASEHIT ORGY WINS LAST GAME HITS MAJOR LEAGUES

Gaining their last two runs in a heavy downpour, the Richmond Union high school varsity athletes defeated the Emeryville high school nine, 6 to 4 yesterday in the final game of the Alameda County Athletic League.

By winning over Emeryville, the local boys went into a tie for third place in the final league standing with Berkeley high school.

The score at the end of the sixth inning was tied 4 to 4. The Richmondites rallied in the last of the seventh, and Rosano and Babich, bruised home to give Richmond the game. The contest was stopped at the end of the seventh inning because of the undesirable weather conditions.

Gordon Lemon, sensational sophomore twirler, pitched a first-class ball game for the Richmond outfit, allowing but six hits. De Witt of Emeryville was nipped for 15 hits. Rosano received for Richmond while Benedetti performed behind the plate for Emeryville.

The heavy hitting for Richmond was done by Rosano, Rogers and Scarcella. Rogers and Scarcella both collected triples, while Rosano made good three out of four chances at bat. Pedmont was the stellar swatter for Emeryville yesterday, collecting a homer and a single.

The Alameda County Athletic League baseball competition for 1930 was won by Alameda last Friday. Yesterday's game was a postponed contest.

Huzefka Signs With St. Joseph In Western Loop

One more Richmond athlete has joined the cowboy trek in search of fame and fortune on the diamond.

Johnny Huzefka, local baseball favorite, recently left the bay region for St. Joseph, Mo., where he will join the St. Joseph team in the Western League. The Missouri team offers a promising field for Johnny's sports activities, for the Western league is known as a Cardinal "farm." "Babe" Borton, scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, recommended Huzefka for the Western league.

The local athlete will try for

NEW YORK, April 29.—UP—World happenings featured Tuesday's major league games, with 123 runs and 181 hits in the seven games played.

Thirty-nine pitchers saw action in the seven games, with eight hurlers taking part in each. The Yankees-Senators game at Washington and the Giant-Robins game at New York, and seven participating in the Cubs-Pirates game at Chicago.

Some of the wildest scoring in years took place in the three National League games, with Brooklyn rolling up 19 runs, including a 11 run rally in the second inning, against the Giants.

The Giants themselves scored 9 runs in the third inning. The Phillies amassed 8 runs in one inning and the Pirates had a 7-run rally. In the American League, Washington put on a scoring spree against the Yankees to wipe up a 7-run handicap and tie the score with seven runs in the third inning.

Pittsburgh's late rallies enabled the Pirates to come from behind and beat the Cubs at Chicago, 13 to 9, and take the National League lead from the Giants.

Lester Bell's home run with the bases loaded helped the Cubs to get away to a six run lead, but the Pirates staged their seven run rally to overtake the National League champions in the sixth inning.

Through three hours and ten minutes of some of the worst baseball seen in the majors in years, the Robins and Giants amused a crowd of 15,000 at the Polo Grounds with their antics. Brooklyn won, 19 to 15.

After seven innings of scoreless baseball at Philadelphia, the Phillies exploded hits all over Baker Bowl to drive Bob Smith from the mound and score eight runs in the eighth inning. The Phillies won, 8 to 2.

Washington hung up its eighth straight victory.

Red Faber was the only American league pitcher to go the route, pitching the Chicago White Sox to an 8 to 6 victory over Detroit, although pounded for 14 hits.

Al Simmons and Mickey Cochran made four hits apiece as the Philadelphia Athletics beat the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 5.

Charley Jameson, veteran Cleveland outfielder, had a perfect day at bat—three hits in three times up—as the Indians beat the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 4.

Senior Cagers Win Contest

The seniors defeated the sophomores in a basketball game last night at the Richmond "Y" following a meeting of the Boys' High Club. The score was 27 to 15.

The lineup: SENIORS—Snodgrass 4, Harlow 10, Kovoda 11, Conn 2, Rasmussen 5, SOTOMORES—Hurley 8, Carlin, Sutton 5, Bradbury, Pollett, James 2.

third base with the St. Joseph outfit, Huzefka is known as a clever fielder and a strong hitter, and should be able to make his own way in the eastern leagues very easily. He was employed by the Standard Oil company of Richmond. He has seen action on the Elk and Standard Oil teams.

Cal Pitchford Given Sweater

"Cal" Pitchford, captain of the St. Mary's Varsity quintet and Richmond Union high school graduate, was one of 10 Varsity athletes who were awarded sweaters at a student meeting in the Madison gymnasium yesterday morning.

The other varsity men who received the awards were: Butch Simas, Toby Hunt, Elmer Preston, Harry Ebding, Len Callan, Charley Baird, "Red" Mulholland, Bob Patterson and Manager Houston Herrin.

SWIM WEEK PLANS LAID

Summer vacations will be safer for boys and girls of Richmond because of the "Learn to swim safely" campaign to be conducted under the auspices of the local Red Cross chapter from May 6 to May 10, inclusive.

At a meeting held yesterday the local Red Cross authorities made plans with directors of physical education in Richmond schools for enrollment of students in the swimming course, beginning next week at the natatorium.

Cards were distributed to the children on which the parents will signify their approval of the course. Classes for beginners, swimmers, junior life savers, senior life savers and instructors will be held.

These courses will be open to everyone within the jurisdiction of the Richmond chapter of the Red Cross. Adults desiring to enter the courses may secure enrollment at the A. G. Papadakis candy store at Ninth and Macdonald avenue. Exact hours for the classes will be announced later.

The only cost to those taking the courses will be the admission price to the pool, which has been reduced for the occasion. The local chapter is paying the expenses of a qualified instructor who will be furnished by the Pacific headquarters of the Red Cross in San Francisco.

Bert Scoble, head of the Richmond chapter, is in charge of the movement for greater swimming safety here.

"Once a person learns to swim, he never forgets," Scoble said, "but the Red Cross has an excellent idea in not only offering to teach those who do not know how, but to help those who already are fairly good swimmers to learn to handle themselves better, and thus some day possibly save a life. Proper training makes every swimmer a potential life-saver. That training the Red Cross is prepared to give to children and adults in Richmond without charge."

Riegels Will Coach Frosh

BERKELEY, April 29.—Roy Riegels, captain of the University of California football team in 1929, will act as freshman coach during the 1930 season. Riegels' appointment by Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price has been approved by the executive committee of the Associated Students.

The former Bear captain had previously been named coach of the "good" squad. His place in that capacity will be taken by Ivins "Brick" Marcus, varsity halfback from 1925 to 1927. George "Pat" Latham, captain of the 1924 "wonder team," who served as assistant freshman mentor under "Clifford" "Brick" Mitchell, will continue his work in the 1930 campaign. Mitchell was made head line coach early in the year.

Bear Netmen Will Invade Eastern Courts

BERKELEY, April 29.—Four University of California tennis players and their coach will invade the east this summer to play a lengthy schedule of matches with opponents from the middle west to the Atlantic seaboard and to compete in the national intercollegiate championship tourney at Washington, Delaware on June 23.

The trip has been approved by the executive committee of the Associated Students, and plans for the tour are now being completed by Ray Grismer, tennis coach, who will accompany the men.

Two of the four men have been selected for the trip. They are Dolf E. Muehleisen and Robert Muehleisen. The San Diego "twins" for whom Grismer recently predicted an intercollegiate doubles championship. The other two men will be selected from a group of four outstanding netmen: Captain Martin McKee, Gerald Hyde, Ted Ludlow and Francis Manis.

The Bears have had one of the most successful tennis seasons on record at the Berkeley Institution. They were undefeated in intercollegiate play during the season, and defeated Stanford for the first time in four years. Muehleisen is the present intercollegiate singles champion of the Pacific Coast, and the doubles title.

BRITISH HOLD LEADERS OF REVOLT

BOMBAY, India, April 29.—(UP)—New blows were struck on each side today in the Indian independence campaign and the British government's effort to suppress it. Developments included: Arrest of three independence leaders and arraignment of Devi Das Gandhi, youngest son of Mahatma Gandhi, 41-year-old chief of the disobedience drive. Reiteration by the elder Gandhi that he soon would raid a government salt depot. Widespread picketing of liquor and foreign cloth shops as part of the independence campaign. First activity by the government in eliminating the extremist tone of native newspapers.

Arrests Made. Seth Govinddas, Pandit Dwarkaprasad and Pandit Mahanand Chaturvedi, president, secretary and member, respectively, of the central provinces "war council" were arrested at Jabalpur and charged with sedition. Govinddas recently declared he joined with the civil disobedience movement to expiate the "sins" of his grandfather, who helped the British during the great mutiny of 1857. Devi Das Gandhi and Rahmanand Syass were arraigned on sedition charges before Assistant District Magistrate Pool in the central jail at Delhi. It was alleged they had incited others to break the salt laws. Young Gandhi pleaded guilty and will be sentenced on Wednesday.

Plea Made. In making his plea, Devi Das Gandhi said he had acted only according to his conscience. "The great moral wrong done India by Britain has no parallel in history," he declared. "It even surpasses the material wrong which requires it to be declared from the house of lords." Meantime Young Gandhi's father was making a speech in the Gujarat district where he has been since he first violated the salt laws April 6. He said that a raid on a government salt depot was inevitable as part of the independence campaign. It would take place shortly, he added, and he would inform authorities well beforehand.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—(UP)—The state late today rested its case in the retrial of Lawrence Tulloch, actor, charged with manslaughter following the death of Mrs. Gertrude Hawkins Lavine in a bungalow of the artist colony on Telegraph Hill. Shortly before the prosecution closed, William Whittle, friend of Tulloch, testified that no liquor was served the night Mrs. Lavine died from gunshot wounds. The actor claims the woman committed suicide.

LIVERMORE, April 29.—(UP)—Six men were injured, one possibly fatally, and 22 were arrested when a crowd of men raided a winery near here today and drank until they had reached a belligerent mood. KEY NAMES SAFETY MAN

Leading all his fellow employees, C. L. Perkins of the electrical engineering staff of the Key System Transit company, has been designated Honor Man for the year by the Key System Safety First organization.

The Transit company's safety first association functions through a number of committees which pass on the merits of the safety first suggestions submitted by fellow employees. If a suggestion receives approval, it is passed to an executive committee for final action. E. M. Boggs is general chairman and Ann S. Davis is secretary of the organization.

During 1929, the annual report shows that 163 safety first ideas were considered by the executive committee. Perkins successfully recommended during the year ten safety first ideas. Milton Reullier, also of the electrical staff, received second honors, having eight successful recommendations. Third place was won by K. U. Sutherland of the electrical engineering department with a record of seven suggestions adopted.

Observes 80th Birthday With Ride In Plane

Samuel Rowe, Sr., 2209 Roosevelt avenue took his first airplane ride this week, in celebration of his 80th birthday.

As he stepped out of the plane, he recalled to memory the long hard journey in 1869 when he first came west from Wisconsin, and told friends of the two weeks travel it took to make the trip.

Rowe has resided in Richmond since 1916, and until a few years ago was employed by the Western Pipe and Steel company. Prior to his engagement with the Pipe company, Rowe followed mining in Butte county for a number of years.

Following his trip in the air, a dinner party was held in his honor. Their three children, Donald J. Rowe and Mrs. Rowe of Oakland; Albert A. Rowe and family of San Leandro, Samuel Rowe Jr., of Richmond, and two granddaughters, Clarice and Margery were present at the dinner.

Northwest Faces Fire Hazard

PORTLAND, Ore., April 29.—(UP)—Forestry officials pointed out today that lack of rain and snowfall during the winter and spring means the Pacific Northwest will face a greater forest fire menace this season than last year.

P. A. Thompson, supervisor of the Kolville national forest in northwestern Washington reported that "right now conditions never looked worse." He said streams had not risen and stock water holes are drying up. He added that grass is poor and that "only heavy spring rain will save us."

Jury Selected For Trial Of Newspaperman

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—(UP)—The selection of a jury to try Morris Levine, newspaperman, and Miss Leontine Johnson on the charges of attempting to extort $300,000 from prominent men by threats of publishing articles concerning the collapse of the Julian Petroleum corporation, started in superior court today.

Prospective jurors were asked if they intended to support District Attorney Byron Pitts in the gubernatorial race.

Lavine was arrested as he came from the office of Charles Crawford, politician, carrying $15,000 in marked money. Miss Johnson formerly was secretary of S. C. Lewis, president of Julian oil. It was reported that the prosecution was having difficulty in persuading Crawford to testify. He was recently indicted on charges of bartering stock selling permits.

FESS DEFENDS APPOINTMENT OF PARKER

WASHINGTON, April 29.—UP—The bitter Senate debate over President Hoover's Supreme Court nomination of Judge John J. Parker today brought Senator Fess, Rep., Ohio, and Parker himself, to the defense.

The Ohio Senator charged the fundamental American idea of an independent judiciary was being attacked here, and Parker denied charges that he suppressed evidence favorable to defendants when he was prosecuting a war frauds case as an assistant attorney general in the Daugherty regime.

Attorney General Mitchell took a minor part in the controversy by making public a photostatic copy of the judges charge to the jury, directing a verdict for the defendants, in the war frauds case referred to.

Judge Hit. Senator Ashurst, Dem., Ariz., termed the North Carolina judge as a "weakling," in challenging the claim of Fess that the fight is not against Parker, but against the entire Supreme Court and the rest of the judiciary.

Fess charged the opposition to Parker, and the previous opposition to Chief Justice Hughes, was Socialistic.

Fess charged an attempt was under way to "break down the present American judiciary as it now exists." He denounced newspapers which said the Senate issue was the Supreme court, Parker being only an incident, but he refused to explain when Senator Black, Dem., Ala., demanded to know who he meant.

Fess Scored. "No man is fitted to sit on the Supreme Court who ratified a yellow dog contract," Ashurst shouted at Fess. "Yet it is suggested we are trying to destroy the Supreme court because we won't confirm weaklings." He predicted Parker would be rejected.

The debate revolved chiefly around the yellow-dog issue, raised by Parker's decision in the fourth circuit court in 1927, upholding an injunction granted to the Red Jacket and other West Virginia coal companies, forbidding union men to attempt to persuade non-union employees to break their contracts by joining the union.

Fess reviewed the numerous previous occasions in history when partisan politics have overthrown Supreme Court nominations, and denounced proposals to make Federal judges elective as "un-American."

Borah Talks. Senator Borah, Rep., Idaho, concluded his speech against Parker started yesterday by asserting that the criticism of Democratic government springs from public officials who have not the courage to meet their obligations.

Another letter from President Green of the American Federation of Labor, replying to Parker's defense of a few days ago on the labor issue was read to the Senate. Labor is not attacking the Supreme Court, Green said, declaring it was unwise to "force the appointment of a man so universally objectionable as Judge Parker."

Better Homes Week Opened In Richmond

Many building experts have declared that the building industry will be omitted from American homes in the near future, Narbett said he believed Americans had been too long associated with dining rooms and have become practically an American institution.

Exhibits Held. Other features of the opening day of "Better Homes Week" in Richmond were the exhibit booths installed at headquarters in the Odd Fellows hall on Tenth street.

Business houses and women's and girls' organizations have placed booths at the exhibit, where many unusual and useful articles may be purchased, according to Mrs. C. F. DeShields, chairman of the movement in Richmond.

A four room house has been set up for the inspection of visitors, with each room furnished by a local furniture concern. The living room has been furnished by the L. H. Schrader company, the dining room by the Central Furniture company, the kitchen by Breuners, and the bedroom by Montgomery Ward and company.

A free plant exchange has also been established in connection with the exhibit.

Backing the movement here are the Merchants' Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Women's Federated Clubs and the Parent-Teacher Associations. The week is being held at a national event, and Mrs. DeShields has received her appointment as Richmond chairman from Washington, D. C.

Rev. A. A. Pratt, talking on "Character Building in the Home" will be the principal speaker at today's session.

Bass Fishermen Given Warning

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—Black bass fishermen who use live minnows for bait in the Sacramento San Joaquin valley streams should remember that the use of minnow seines in the taking of bait is illegal, according to the announcement of the Division of Fish and Game of the department of Natural Resources.

Section 636 of the Penal Code of the state of California makes it illegal to use seines for taking nongame fish for bait in the inland waters. Through courtesy to the sportsmen, this provision of the laws has never been strictly enforced. Recent flagrant violations have caused the officials of the fish and game body to demand that their wardens enforce the existing law.

The enforcement of this law will not work a hardship on the sportsmen who depend upon the use of minnows for bait, because it is legal to use dip nets in taking bait, provided the dip nets are not greater than six feet in greatest breadth and are not baited.

The greatest damage done by the seines is in the destruction of the nests of spawning spiny-rayed fishes, which include the black bass and perch. These fish spawn in the shallow areas where minnows are most plentiful, and the pulling of seines over the spawning beds results in the destruction of nests, according to the statements of the fish cultural experts of the Division of Fish and Game.

TROOPS GUARD FELONS AT PRISON

Corridors. Guards first became aware of the new revolt when a shower of bolts and nails greeted them. The convicts then attacked a partition which separates cell blocks from the prison guard room. The prison was in a turmoil.

Guards Fire. Then the guards opened fire, shooting into the end of the cell block. Most of the shots went over the prisoners' heads but two inmates, George Tonoff, Toledo, convicted burglar, Jewell Joffa also of Toledo, were struck. Tonoff's condition at the city hospital was critical. Several other prisoners were nicked by buckshot but their wounds required only first aid treatment.

The convicts succeeded in knocking the locks off the cell doors in death row, and seven prisoners, all under sentence of death, were liberated. They were taken in custody immediately after the rioting died down, however.

Cries of "butchers!" and "shoot us all down while you're at it!" greeted Col. Haubrich, of the National Guard, who had taken charge of the prison. He told the prisoners that there would be no more shooting, that he was in charge of the prison.

"We'll play ball with you!" shouted a convict.

Colonel Haubrich then ordered all prison guards outside the walls and placed his soldiers in their places. This arrangement seemed to please the convicts and they became docile to the extreme as they marched to the mess hall for lunch.
